In Europe Becomes Hourly More Interesting.

President Krueger Will Appeal to Russia, France and Germany

If England Refuses His Demand for Redress for Recent Invasion of Russia May Try to Appeal to Transvaal

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The development of the European crisis becomes hourly more interesting. The absence of all news regarding the intentions of both the Kaiser and the czar receives a peaceful interpretation in most quarters. In several days we shall have a decision, in which St. Petersburg, Berlin and Paris will all be represented. We shall learn then whether the continental combination for the overthrow of British prestige includes war in its programme.

There is a strong disinclination in France to support the Russian position. Had been the aggressor against England there would have been prompt and hearty support from both Germany and France. French opinion, however, has probably been removed by President Krueger. There is the highest authority for saying that the Boer president has submitted to the French government his demands for redress on account of the recent invasion. If Great Britain refuses to accede to them, President Krueger will appeal for assistance to the continental powers. Germany will no longer be the leader of the quarrel, but there are strong reasons for believing that Russia, France and Germany would act in concert in complying with the Boer request.

It is not yet known positively what the Boer demands are, but it is certain that they include more than mere money indemnity. It is known that President Krueger has received from European statesmen the assurance that they will support him to demand the complete independence of the Transvaal, and he has probably done so. Authorities in London state that the Boer president, on Monday last, declared it to be his intention to recognize the independence of the Transvaal Republic. It is now clearer than ever that if he does this alone or in combination with others, war will follow.

New York, Jan. 12.—Cable messages from London state that Lord Salisbury has clinched the position at Delagoa bay by notifying the British government that the landing of any foreign troops there will be immediately followed by the occupation of the place by the British. By Wednesday five British cruisers will be stationed at Delagoa bay.

The Westminster Gazette, commenting on the relations between the emperor and the British royal family, says that these relations are offensive. He uses the imperative in his later course with all his relatives in England and Germany, and holds himself out as the head of the British royal family. As the son of the British prince royal he always contends that he is heir to the British throne. In connection with this subject, the Frankfurter Zeitung renews the story that Emperor William, in the event of the death of his wife, would claim the throne of the United Kingdom and prepare to enforce rights by force of arms. As a believer in the divine rights of kings he would not regard an adverse decision on his claim by parliament.

FOREIGN RELATIONS

The Armenian and Cuban Questions Considered at Saturday's Session of the Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The senate committee on foreign relations held a special meeting Saturday morning for the purpose of considering the Armenian and Cuban questions. Several more important matters before this committee this session than there has been in many years, owing to the many recent foreign complications. The Armenian question is considered by the committee to be the most arduous, and some reports are given that it will be devised to bring about a condition that will afford Americans and their property better protection under the Turkish government.

The Cuban question is one that is also considered by the committee as of immediate importance. There is no doubt that the majority of the committee is in favor of the recognition of the Cuban insurgents as belligerents, but the committee does not think the time is yet ripe for such recognition, that the insurgents have not yet gained that signal victory that will justify the United States in extending to them the recognition that will give them, so far as this country is concerned, belligerent rights.

Of course the Venezuelan matter has not been lost sight of, but there appears to be no immediate necessity for action on that question.
